Kelley Stoddard Joins Mutare's Midwest Sales Team

SCHAUMBURG, IL - January 27, 2010 – Kelley Stoddard, formerly Senior Business Affiliate Manager for AT&T, recently joined Mutare Software as Regional Manager for the Midwest. She brings to her role a broad range of experience in telecommunications hardware/software sales, account development and sales management, including key positions with SBC, IBM and, most recently, AT&T.

A graduate of Bowling Green State University, Ms. Stoddard launched her career in telecommunications sales as Senior Account Executive with US Network, a distributor for Ameritech, where she consistently achieved the distinction of top salesperson in Ohio. Having advanced to Senior Account Manager for Ameritech, she was recognized among the top account managers for Illinois four consecutive years running. Kelley served as Senior Sales Specialist for IBM's software group where she represented the Lotus software division and, upon returning to SBC, was hired to be part of an exclusive national sales team that sold SBC's WiFi products and services. Kelley returned to the wire line enterprise division at SBC where she was named top salesperson in the country for SBC's enterprise sales. Prior to joining Mutare Software, she worked as Senior Business Affiliate Manager for AT&T where, in addition to meeting sales quota, she served as liaison for the corporate integration of AT&T and AT&T mobility (formerly Cingular wireless).

Mutare Software has nearly doubled its national sales force over the past two years as part of an aggressive growth strategy aimed at expanding visibility and market penetration for break-through enterprise voice and web software solutions. "Kelley's wide range of experience with mobility and telecommunications fits perfectly with our strategy," says Scott Brown, Mutare Software Director of Sales. "We are fortunate to have someone with her depth of experience join our Midwest team."
